Columbia College organises webinar on Generational Gaps

■ Staff Reporter
RAIPUR, Sept 3

COLUMBIA College organised a national webinar on the topic 'Navigating Generational Gaps: Strengthening the Parent-Child Relationship'.

Vice-Chancellor of Pt Ravishankar Shukla University Professor Dr Sachchidanand Shukla was the Chief guest. Keynote speakers of the webinar were International Counsellor and Former Head of Department of Psychology in Government Arts and Commerce Girls' College, Deventra Nagar, Raipur Dr I C Ajawani and Assistant Professor Department of Political Science, Faculty of Arts at The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda-Vadodra Dr Deepti Acharya. As youth representatives, Student Teacher from Columbia College Praveen Verma and student of Maharaja Sayajirao University Asmita Bharadwaj were present.

Secretary of Jan Pragati Education Society Harjeet Singh Hira was also present. Principal of the college Dr Arun Kumar Dubey and Vice-Principal Dr Abha Dubey guided in successful organising of the programme.

The webinar centered around the subject of 'Generational Gap' and all speakers shared highly important insights related to the topic. These insights will undoubtedly aid in reducing the growing distances due to generational differences between parents and children, and in establishing a positive and healthy relationship.

Chief guest Professor Dr Sachchidanand Shukla praised the institution while emphasising on the necessity of discussing such topics. He said that discussions on such subjects are crucial today.

Dr Sachchidanand Shukla suggested that seminars and workshops on such subjects should be organised on a larger scale. He also emphasised the need for parents to understand their children, monitor what they are doing, what they are seeing through mobile phones and other mediums, and the kind of literature they are reading.

Keynote speaker Dr I C Ajawani emphasised that children don't merely learn from preaching, rather they learn from imitating the adults. Hence, he suggested that adults should exhibit the behaviour they wish to see in their children.

Keynote speaker Dr Deepti Acharya mentioned that the generation gap may never diminish entirely due to the differing experiences of generations, but there is a need to accept the uniqueness of children's perspectives. She suggested that if a child does something good, they should not just be praised but celebrated. And if something wrong is observed, instead of scolding them immediately, parents should first explain with love and help them rectify their mistakes. Dr Acharya added. The session ended with the main and keynote speaker addressing the questions and queries of participants.

Columbia College holds life skill training programme

■ Staff Reporter

RAIPUR, Apr 22

COLUMBIA College organised Life Skill Training Programme on Interview Skills for B Ed and D El Ed pupil teachers.

The trainer for the Interview Skills programme was Sushree Mahapatra, an alumna of Columbia College. She provided training while explaining the nuances of interview skills. The trainer emphasised that the success of any goal depends on its preparation.

When preparing for an interview, it's crucial to have complete information about the organisation and to present oneself in the best possible way. While discussing personal information, including name, parents' names, education, hobbies, weaknesses and strengths, it is important presenting oneself with confidence with excellent body language being the key.

Answers to questions should be natural, simple and based on one's own knowledge. At the end of the programme, Sushree Mahapatra conducted interviews for some pupil teachers so that they could better understand its practical aspects.

The pupil teachers also cleared their doubts in the form of questions to trainer, who provided solutions to queries.

"Environmental Consciousness in Ramcharitmanas"

Columbia College organized a fantastic program related to environmental awareness for the B.Ed. and D.El.Ed. pupil teachers.

The theme revolved around "Environmental Consciousness in Ramcharitmanas."

Dr. Abha Dubey, the college's Vice-Principal, brilliantly integrated inspiring incidents from Ramcharitmanas into environmental awareness, emphasizing the significance of nature by connecting the life of Lord Rama with the environment.

Dr. Abha Dubey highlighted that our bodies are made of the five elements, just like nature itself. Any imbalance in these elements within us can lead to various illnesses and distortions in the body. Similarly, any disruption in nature triggers its wrath, mainly due to human interference. Human life is created from nature, and it's everyone's responsibility to preserve it.

She drew parallels from the life of Lord Rama, stating that his life exemplifies an ideal one, showcasing profound love and respect for the environment, extending beyond just trees, animals, and birds to rivers, lakes, and mountains.

She emphasized that truly honoring Lord Rama involves embodying his ideals in our lives, with tree plantation being one of the most crucial aspects. Taking care of trees, protecting mute creatures, serving them, and keeping them safe, maintaining cleanliness of rivers, lakes, and avoiding the use of plastic are ways we can contribute to environmental conservation.

Educational tour in the Raipur branch of the National Association for the Blind "Prerna" (18-08-2023)

B.Ed. and D.El.Ed. pupil teachers from Columbia College, Tekari, Raipur, along with the department's principal, Dr. Arun Kumar Dubey, and academic members, undertook an educational tour in the Raipur branch of the National Association for the Blind "Prerna". The purpose of this tour was for pupil teachers to comprehend the diversity of their environment, support it, and internalize the concept of inclusion by fostering a sense of unity in diversity. This understanding helps them realize that differently-abled children can also learn like typical children.

Upon reaching the Prerana Institute, the Secretary Mr. Tiwari provided an extensive insight into the objectives and activities of the institution. It was established in 1985-86 and started as a special school, which has now grown into a large organization. Visually impaired children enroll here. It is a completely free, residential, non-governmental institution. It has its admission criteria, for which the District Board's disability certificate is necessary. The children here study the syllabus and books of the Chhattisgarh Secondary Board of Education, take exams, and pursue careers just like ordinary people.

Pupil teachers observed various classes, especially children working on computers. They also examined their instructional aids. The college and teachers shared a contribution amount with the institution. The teachers returned with the belief that inclusion is a powerful force that aids in overcoming obstacles and achieving success.
